Adding Items to Calendar

There are two ways to add items to your calendar. You can either click on the "Add Item" button in the top right corner of the calendar, or you can click on the "Add Item" button in the left sidebar.

When you click on the "Add Item" button, a new window will open. This window will allow you to enter the details of the item you want to add. You will need to enter the date, time, and location of the item. You will also need to enter a title for the item. Once you have entered all the information, you can click on the "Add Item" button to save the item to your calendar.

Due Dates and Late Assignments

Your teacher is able to set due dates for various assignments in Canvas. You can see these due dates in multiple places throughout the class, including on the Grades page and on any related modules.

If you turn in the assignment after the set due date, it will show up as late in Canvas. However, this does not necessarily mean that your grade will go down. Different teachers have different ways of handling late assignments, and Canvas does not automatically deduct points for late assignments. Contact your teacher if you have any concerns about late assignments

Comments on Assignments

Whenever you submit an assignment for class on Canvas, you can leave comments for your teacher. The Comments box will always appear on the menu, regardless of whether you plan to submit a document file, a website URL, or something completely different. These comments will appear when you are viewing the assignment after submitting it.

You can find them by selecting the assignment on the Grades page or by clicking the speech bubble icon next to the assignment in question. You can also find them on the assignment page under the Submit Assignment button.

Your teacher will be able to see these comments and add their own comments to the assignment. This allows them to provide you with feedback specific to your work and answer any questions or concerns from your initial comments.

Both you and your teacher can leave more comments after the assignment is submitted. Click the assignment name on the Grades page to go to the Submission Details page for that assignment. You will find all comments in a sidebar to the right of your submission with a Comments box below.

I'm worried some of my tasks are still too close to action steps, but I feel more confident about them here than I did in the draft. Nice story, Rachel.
An action step is something that can be done in one action or gesture. Keep an eye out for that -- for example, "adding a subtitle track" looks like it could be a single action step of a larger task, per your use case.		Andrea Ames,	Mar 18	at	7:25pm

This is the new version of the assignment for Discord. I'm much happier with this than I was with my VLC submission, especially with regards to the task list.
So here's the problem with this choice... All of these tasks are system tasks. There's really only one user task for gamers with Discord communicating via voice chat. All of these other tasks are utility or system tasks -- things that must be done to even get the voice chat to work at all, or things that can be done to configure Discord in a variety of ways.		Andrea Ames,	Mar 23	at	6:26pm
Let me make a suggestion... How about if you choose the Canvas classroom as your project. You are an example of the audience. There are easily a dozen things (or more!) that you can do in a classroom that would qualify as user tasks. (Be sure to ignore all of the "admin" tasks I had you do at the beginning of the course.)

Scenario
Melanie is a young woman working part time at odd hours of the day. Because of her work schedule, she cannot attend evening classes on technical writing. Melanie is hoping to go into technical writing as a possible change of career, and she is currently taking classes in Canvas from a local university program.
Melanie has a test coming up very soon for this class, and she's very worried. This test will make up a good chunk of her final grade, and she wants to do well. She needs to review the video lectures her teacher has posted, find the assignment for the test and review how to take it, and she wants to review her past assignments to see where she needs work.
